

ATTORNEY CRITCHLOW RETURNS AND TELLS OF THE INVESTIGATION

What the Retention of Mr. Smoot in the Senate Would Mean.

No One Can Tell What the Outcome Will Be as to Smoot or the Church.

Some of the Incidents That Produced the Deepest Effect on the Senators.

 "It is impossible to forecast with certainty the result, and even the members of the Senate have not yet, probably, given to the matter any serious consideration. They will not make up their minds until the evidence is before them. In fact, very few persons appreciate the real ground upon which the exclusion of Mr. Smoot is urged or why the same objection should not be made to Mr. Howell, who is also a member of the church. I think when they come to realize the fact that one vigorous, sincere and determined protest upon the part of Mr. Smoot against existing conditions would either put a stop to them or drive him from his quorum, they will realize his responsibility for these conditions, and the fact that so long as he remains an apostle he cannot be absolved from such responsibility. Personally, Mr. Smoot is well liked by all and there is no fight being made against him save in his representative capacity, and whether he may be deprived of his seat or retain it is, to my mind, of little consequence. His continuance in the Senate will serve as a constant reminder to the people of the United States that polygamy is no longer a local condition, but a national institution."

Attorney E. B. Critchlow, one of the important witnesses in the Smoot investigation, who returned from Washington, D. C., yesterday, made the foregoing statement when asked what the outcome of the investigation would be. In connection with the things that have been made against Mr. Critchlow by the official organ of the church the attorney had nothing directly to say. He, however, did say that he was personally very much gratified to receive the assurance from Mr. Smoot that his testimony had been absolutely fair and just to him.

When interrogated upon the probable future course of the investigation, the attorney said that he assumes that the scope of the inquiry will be along the lines that were gone into with the church officials when in Washington. He said it is quite likely that the Senate committee is anxious to find out what it can about these newer cases which all know exist here in the State, and whether it is possible these things can happen without the knowledge of the church officials. There is no question, he said, but that the committee intends that this shall be a most searching investigation into every aspect of the Mormon question.

In speaking of the excuse given by the leaders of the church, that the enabling act contains no express prohibition of polygamous cohabitation, Mr. Critchlow said that the Senate and people of the East generally regarded it as a manifest quibble. At least three of the Senatorial committees were members of the House," he said, "when the enabling act passed, and they will not listen with any patience to the contention that the term 'polygamous marriages' did not include polygamous cohabitation. They seem inclined to think that either a trick was played upon them at the time or that the present leaders of the church have manufactured this excuse for the continuance of polygamy."

Upon being asked what the most notable features of the investigation were, Mr. Critchlow said there were several. Among others he instanced the scorn with which several of the committee met the charge of President Smith that those who commented upon or complained of cases of polygamous cohabitation and new polygamous marriages were spies and informers. He commented that Mr. Smith had lost ground by assuming this attitude.

Another notable feature of the investigation, he said, was the answer of President Lyman, who has shown himself guilty of continuous polygamous cohabitation and had declared himself the prospective successor to Joseph F. Smith, in the event he outlived him, to the question of Senator Hoar as to whether he expected to continue his course of life, which he admitted to be contrary to law and the rule and discipline of his church. The question referred to was as follows:

"So that you say that you—an apostle of your church—expecting to succeed in which you will be the person to be the medium of divine revelations, are living and are known to your people to live in disobedience to the law of the land and the law of God?"

"There was an instant of impressive silence," said Mr. Critchlow, "and when the answer came, 'Yes, sir,' there was another pause in the proceedings, indicating the profound astonishment of the entire committee as well as of the others attendant upon the hearing. It was perhaps the most impressive incident of the entire investigation."

"The Senate committee as well as the entire country," he continued, "seemed to have given full faith and credit to the assertions of President Smith and his predecessors that the church was a thing of the past, understanding thereby that polygamous cohabitation was of course included, and the effect of those revelations cannot be understood by those who have lived continuously in this State. They are now prepared to believe what the people of this State have known for a long while, that the leaders are pursuing a course which means the re-establishment of polygamy under conditions which involve the greatest secrecy, as is evidenced by the numerous cases of recent polygamy, especially among younger members of the church holding higher positions. The keenest interest was also taken in the account, introduced in evidence, from church publications of the fight made against Thatcher's Senatorial candidacy and his subsequent recantation and humiliation. The evident authenticity of the account and its close relation to the questions involved in this hearing evidently excited great interest among the Senators, as was evidenced by their remarks outside the formal sessions of the committee."

Mr. Critchlow says there can be little doubt that some members of the committee appreciate the enormous power centered in the presidency and apostleship of the church. Their questioning, he said, seemed to indicate that in their minds these leaders and not the people at large are held responsible for the conditions which exist here.

ALTA CUT OFF FROM THE OUTSIDE WORLD

All traffic communication with the mines at Alta has been cut off by an immense snowslide in Little Cottonwood canyon. The managers of both the Columbus Consolidated Mining company and the Continental Mines & Smelting corporation have written letters to the Board of County Commissioners asking for assistance in opening the road and say that unless assistance is done immediately about 100 miners will be thrown out of employment, which would necessarily affect from 400 to 500 people.

The snow occurred about two miles north of Wasatch. The snow is piled up from four to thirty feet in the gulch and the slide is more than 100 yards wide. General Manager Crowther says that unless the road is cleared out traffic into Alta will be blocked for six or eight weeks. He says that forty teams hauling ore to Sandy have been put out of commission and that the employment of the miners depends upon keeping the road open. The letter concludes by saying that Alta bids fair to closely approach the activity of its busiest periods this coming season. It is therefore essential that the road be opened up.

The snow is unusually deep in the mountains this year and besides the slide in Little Cottonwood there is also another in Big Cottonwood canyon. The latter is larger than the one near Wasatch and is the first that has occurred in Big Cottonwood, for many years. County Commissioner W. W. Wilson visited the scene of the slide in Big Cottonwood and says the amount of snow piled up there is simply astonishing. The County Commissioners will make an appropriation toward adding in clearing the county road there and the committee will be delegated to make an investigation and report on the slide in Little Cottonwood canyon.

KING SAYS HEARST WON'T BE NOMINATED

Fish Culture Station for Utah—Indian War Veterans to Get Pensions.

BY A. F. PHILLIPS.

Tribune Bureau, National Hotel.
 WASHINGTON, D. C., April 2. Former Congressman William H. King arrived here today. He came from Philadelphia, where he is interested in some litigation. He was given a warm welcome by many old friends in both parties on the floor of the House. Judge King, who is a member of the Democratic National committee, will confer with Democratic leaders regarding the coming campaign. Asked as to the probable nominee for President by the St. Louis convention, he spoke in favor of Judge Parker, but would be for any good Democrat. On one question he was emphatic, and that was that Hearst would not be nominated, and this despite the fact that Hearst holds the whip hand.

As to affairs in Utah Judge King had little to say. Issues there, he said, would be fought out on party lines. Judge King will remain several days, having some mining matters to look after before the Interior department.

Senator Smoot's bill to establish a fish culture station in Utah and appropriating $25,000 therefor passed the Senate this afternoon.

The Status of the Indian war veterans as to pensions has been fixed at last by a number of conferences of the Utah delegation with officials of the pension office. On Monday Senator Kearns will introduce a bill to extend the provisions of discharge shall not deprive the applicant of the benefits of the act, but other proof of service performed and of honorable discharge, if satisfactory, shall be deemed sufficient. When there is no record of evidence of such service and discharge, the applicant may establish the same by other satisfactory testimony.

Senator Heyburn, at the White House today, was presented to George W. Fishback, a member of the Porto Rican Legislature, who is in the island, including a civil code which was prepared by former Congressman Sweet of Idaho, now Attorney-General for the island.

The Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections received a protest today signed by citizens of Utah against statements made by President Smith in his recent testimony before the House. The protest was signed by the committee in the Smoot case.

The Department of Agriculture has just issued bulletin No. 141 from office of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, giving the results of experiments on losses in cooking meat. The object of the investigation was to secure accurate data regarding the changes which take place in meat when cooked by the ordinary household method and also the effects of cooking upon nutritive value. It is considered a progress report and gives the details of eighty-seven cooking experiments.

Sealed proposals will be received at the Postoffice department until April 26th for carrying the mail from Olinghouse to Wadsworth, Nev., nine miles, and back six times a week. Contract to run from May 24, 1904, to June 30, 1906.

The site of the postoffice at Haden, Fremont county, Idaho, has been moved one and three-fourths miles northeast, also the site of the Rock Creek, Mont., postoffice one and one-half miles east.

The hydrographic branch of the United States Geological Survey is planning an active campaign in Idaho for the coming summer. The work of the branch will be directed toward the waters of Snake river, beginning during March and continuing probably until the end of July. At Boise Fred Stockton will have charge of this work, looking after all the stations in Southeastern Idaho and doing reconnaissance work on the headwaters of the streams of this section.

His assistant in the eastern end of the State will be located at St. Anthony and will look after the stations east of Shoshone, besides carrying on reconnaissance work on the headwaters of the Snake river. The hydrographer in the eastern portion will be charged with the maintenance of the system of measurements of the canals in the upper Snake river valley.

Additional stations may be established on the Big Lost river at the upper end of the sinks above Mackay, on Wood river in the vicinity of Hailey, and two stations on Snake river, one near Blackfoot and the other at Swan Falls.

A gaging station was established at Sucker creek and one on Big Lost river. At least two stations are desired on Big Wood river, and another should be established on Deep creek at Malad City.

A suit was recently filed in the District court in Idaho for the allotment of the waters of Snake river from American Falls up to the mouth of the river. The State Engineer is about to begin a survey of irrigation conditions under the State law, and the Chief Engineer of the Reclamation Service has agreed to co-operate with the State in the measurement of all the principal canals in this region.

IN OLDEN TIMES

People Were Content to Take Things Easier Than Now.

If our forefathers could behold the modern locomotives, automobiles and electric cars, they could hold up their hands in astonishment.

The stage-coach was fast enough then—people were more content to take things easy.

They used to be satisfied with any sort of a horse that came along—if it did not prevent Baldness they thought it was good because Baldness could not be prevented.

It's different now. People know that germs cause Baldness and that Newbro's Balm kills the germ, thus curing Dandruff and preventing Baldness.

TRYING TO HARNESS DUCHESNE RIVER

Engineer Caleb Tanner of the local headquarters of the Government reclamation service is on the way across the Wasatch divide with a pack outfit to take measurements of the headwaters of the Duchesne river for the use of the department in determining the feasibility of the Utah Arid Land commission's big irrigation scheme. The estimate of the commission is that 200,000 acre feet of water will be available for diversion to this watershed, and if it is found that that amount can be obtained, with the flood waters to be conserved in addition it is conceivable that the expense necessary for bringing it to these valleys will be justified. Mr. Tanner's present trip will be of great importance, therefore, as the first step in the matter of determining the practicability of the proposed great project.
